Positive Progress in Indirect U.S.-Iran Talks: Qatar

photo: Al jazeera

Qatar has announced that indirect talks between the United States and Iran, held in Doha, have made positive progress. Both sides have also agreed to continue the negotiations.

In a post on X, Qatari Foreign Ministry spokesperson Majed Al-Ansari said separate meetings were held with U.S. and Iranian representatives in Doha through mediation by Qatar and Pakistan. He noted that the discussions achieved progress on several key issues.

According to Al-Ansari, the latest round of talks builds on the momentum of previous high-level meetings held in Switzerland. He added that the date for the next round of negotiations will be determined after the funeral and burial ceremonies of Iran's late Supreme Leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, are concluded.

Qatar said diplomatic efforts would continue to resolve the remaining outstanding issues through dialogue, with both parties expressing willingness to keep the negotiation process moving forward.

Meanwhile, Iranian authorities announced that official state ceremonies marking the funeral and burial of the late Ayatollah Ali Khamenei will take place across Iran and Iraq from July 4 to July 9.