

Growing Intolerance in Society Due to Lack of Democracy: Tarique Rahman

Collected picture

Tarique Rahman said that intolerance in society is rising because of the absence of democracy in the country. He announced that if the BNP comes to power, new laws and awareness programs will be introduced for the protection of animals and the preservation of biodiversity.

The Acting Chairman of the BNP, Tarique Rahman, believes that the long absence of democracy has created intolerance and unrest in people's mindset.

On Saturday (September 13), speaking at an animal exhibition organized by the Animal Welfare Association at the Bangladesh-China Friendship Conference Center, he said, "If we can secure people's rights, then protecting the rights of animals and birds will also become easier."

He stated that if the BNP assumes power, existing laws on animal protection will be revised and effective measures will be taken at the national level to preserve biodiversity. Tarique Rahman further said that without public awareness, the implementation of laws will not be successful.

His call was for everyone to renounce their inhuman instincts and make the practice of humanity a collective commitment.