

What did Barron say to Joe Biden during mysterious exchange at Trump's inauguration? Lip reader claims to know

Donald Trump's inauguration ceremony, where he took oath as the 47th US President, had several viral moments. Among them is a video of a brief exchange between Trump's youngest son, Barron and former President Joe Biden

Donald Trump's inauguration ceremony, where he took oath as the 47th US President, had several viral moments. Among them is a video of a brief exchange between Trump's youngest son, Barron and former President Joe Biden. Donald Trump's inauguration ceremony, where he took oath as the 47th US President, had several viral moments. Among them is a video of a brief exchange between Trump's youngest son, Barron and former President Joe Biden that sparked a flurry of speculations on social media. In the clip, the Trump scion shakes hands with the former president and then leans in to say something. It is that gesture that has sparked rumours - with some saying that the 18-year-old said, "It's Time", while others argued that he simply replied "Exactly" to a remark by Biden. Lip readers have now joined the discussion, claiming to decipher what Barron said to Biden. Barron Trump says 'It's Time' to Joe Biden. Melania repeats back to Barron 'It's Time Yes?' And he nods," wrote an X user while posting a video of the moment. It shows Barron shaking hands with Biden, who says something to the young man with a smile.

The very next moment, Barron leans in and says something to the former president, whose facial expression instantly changes. He then walks up to his mother, who speaks with him with a smile on her face.