U.S. President has criticized the recent Israeli strike on Beirut, the capital of , saying the attack should not have taken place.

In a message posted on social media, Trump said such actions could undermine ongoing efforts to finalize a peace agreement in the Middle East at a critical stage of negotiations.

He stated that while Israel has the right to defend itself, the recent response it faced was limited and not significant enough to justify actions that could jeopardize broader peace initiatives.

Trump also noted that an opportunity now exists to reduce tensions between Lebanon and Israel and stressed the importance of making the most of that opportunity.

He urged all parties to exercise restraint and avoid further escalation in the region.

Concluding his remarks, Trump warned that both Israel and Hezbollah must refrain from additional attacks, otherwise the situation could become even more complicated and difficult to control.
